Nelson Mandela's Nobel Peace Prize Lecture
By Nelson Mandela
1993

Nelson Mandela (1918-2013) was a South African leader who worked to end apartheid, a system of racial segregation and discrimination in South Africa from 1948 to 1991. Mandela was later elected as South Africa's first black president, and he served as president from 1994-1995. In 1993, Mandela and F.W. de Klerk, the last head of state of South Africa under the apartheid era, received the Nobel Peace Prize jointly for their work ending apartheid. The following text is Mandela's acceptance speech. As you read, take note of other Nobel Peace Prize recipients that Mandela references and what this contributes to his speech.

[1] Your Majesty the King,
Your Royal Highness,
Esteemed Members of the Norwegian Nobel Committee,
Honorable Prime Minister, Madame Gro Harlem Brundtland, Ministers, Members of Parliament and Ambassadors, Fellow Laureate, Mr. F.W. de Klerk, Distinguished Guests,
Friends, Ladies and Gentlemen,

I extend my heartfelt thanks to the Norwegian Nobel Committee for elevating us to the status of a Nobel Peace Prize winner.

I would also like to take this opportunity to congratulate my compatriot¹ and fellow laureate, State President F.W. de Klerk, on his receipt of this high honor.

Together, we join two distinguished South Africans, the late Chief Albert Lutuli and His Grace Archbishop Desmond Tutu, to whose seminal² contributions to the peaceful struggle against the evil system of apartheid you paid well-deserved tribute by awarding them the Nobel Peace Prize.

[5] It will not be presumptuous³ of us if we also add, among our predecessors, the name of another outstanding Nobel Peace Prize winner, the late Rev Martin Luther King Jr.

He, too, grappled with and died in the effort to make a contribution to the just solution of the same great issues of the day which we have had to face as South Africans.

We speak here of the challenge of the dichotomies⁴ of war and peace, violence and non-violence, racism and human dignity, oppression and repression and liberty and human rights, poverty and freedom from want.

1. fellow citizen
2. work that strongly influenced later developments
3. Presumptuous (adjective): overstepping due bounds (as of propriety or courtesy); taking liberties
4. a division or contrast between two things that are opposing
We stand here today as nothing more than a representative of the millions of our people who dared to rise up against a social system whose very essence is war, violence, racism, oppression, repression and the impoverishment of an entire people.

I am also here today as a representative of the millions of people across the globe, the anti-apartheid movement, the governments and organizations that joined with us, not to fight against South Africa as a country or any of its peoples, but to oppose an inhuman system and sue\textsuperscript{5} for a speedy end to the apartheid crime against humanity.

These countless human beings, both inside and outside our country, had the nobility of spirit to stand in the path of tyranny\textsuperscript{6} and injustice, without seeking selfish gain. They recognized that an injury to one is an injury to all and therefore acted together in defense of justice and a common human decency.

Because of their courage and persistence for many years, we can, today, even set the dates when all humanity will join together to celebrate one of the outstanding human victories of our century.

When that moment comes, we shall, together, rejoice in a common victory over racism, apartheid and white minority rule.

That triumph will finally bring to a close a history of five hundred years of African colonization\textsuperscript{7} that began with the establishment of the Portuguese empire.

Thus, it will mark a great step forward in history and also serve as a common pledge of the peoples of the world to fight racism, wherever it occurs and whatever guise\textsuperscript{8} it assumes.

At the southern tip of the continent of Africa, a rich reward in the making, an invaluable gift is in the preparation for those who suffered in the name of all humanity when they sacrificed everything - for liberty, peace, human dignity and human fulfillment.

This reward will not be measured in money. Nor can it be reckoned in the collective price of the rare metals and precious stones that rest in the bowels\textsuperscript{9} of the African soil we tread in the footsteps of our ancestors.

It will and must be measured by the happiness and welfare of the children, at once the most vulnerable citizens in any society and the greatest of our treasures.

The children must, at last, play in the open veld,\textsuperscript{10} no longer tortured by the pangs of hunger or ravaged by disease or threatened with the scourge\textsuperscript{11} of ignorance, molestation and abuse, and no longer required to engage in deeds whose gravity exceeds the demands of their tender years.

\begin{itemize}
\item \textsuperscript{5} to appeal formally for something
\item \textbf{Tyranny (noun):} cruel and unfair treatment by a powerful person, group, or government
\item \textbf{Colonization (noun):} the process of settling among and taking control over native people for profit and power.
\item \textbf{Guise (noun):} an external form, appearance, or manner of presentation, typically concealing the true nature of something
\item \textsuperscript{9} the deep or remote parts within something
\item the open grasslands in Southern Africa
\item \textbf{Scourge (noun):} a thing that causes great trouble or suffering
\end{itemize}
In front of this distinguished audience, we commit the new South Africa to the relentless pursuit of the purposes defined in the World Declaration on the Survival, Protection and Development of Children.\(^{12}\)

The reward of which we have spoken will and must also be measured by the happiness and welfare of the mothers and fathers of these children, who must walk the earth without fear of being robbed, killed for political or material profit, or spat upon because they are beggars.

They too must be relieved of the heavy burden of despair which they carry in their hearts, born of hunger, homelessness and unemployment.

The value of that gift to all who have suffered will and must be measured by the happiness and welfare of all the people of our country, who will have torn down the inhuman walls that divide them.

These great masses will have turned their backs on the grave insult to human dignity which described some as masters and others as servants, and transformed each into a predator whose survival depended on the destruction of the other.

The value of our shared reward will and must be measured by the joyful peace which will triumph, because the common humanity that bonds both black and white into one human race, will have said to each one of us that we shall all live like the children of paradise.

Thus shall we live, because we will have created a society which recognizes that all people are born equal, with each entitled in equal measure to life, liberty, prosperity, human rights and good governance.

Such a society should never allow again that there should be prisoners of conscience nor that any person's human right should be violated.

Neither should it ever happen that once more the avenues to peaceful change are blocked by usurpers\(^{13}\) who seek to take power away from the people, in pursuit of their own, ignoble\(^{14}\) purposes.

In relation to these matters, we appeal to those who govern Burma that they release our fellow Nobel Peace Prize laureate, Aung San Suu Kyi,\(^{15}\) and engage her and those she represents in serious dialogue, for the benefit of all the people of Burma.

We pray that those who have the power to do so will, without further delay, permit that she uses her talents and energies for the greater good of the people of her country and humanity as a whole.

Far from the rough and tumble of the politics of our own country. I would like to take this opportunity to join the Norwegian Nobel Committee and pay tribute to my joint laureate. Mr. F.W. de Klerk.

He had the courage to admit that a terrible wrong had been done to our country and people through the imposition of the system of apartheid.

---

12. This declaration was agreed to at the World Summit for Children on September 30th, 1990, and established goals to promote the well-being of children.

13. a person who takes a position of power by force

14. Ignoble (adjective): not honorable in character or purpose

15. Aung San Suu Kyi is a pro-democracy, Burmese politician who spent more than 15 years in detention, most of which was under house arrest.
He had the foresight to understand and accept that all the people of South Africa must through negotiations and as equal participants in the process, together determine what they want to make of their future.

But there are still some within our country who wrongly believe they can make a contribution to the cause of justice and peace by clinging to the shibboleths that have been proved to spell nothing but disaster.

It remains our hope that these, too, will be blessed with sufficient reason to realize that history will not be denied and that the new society cannot be created by reproducing the repugnant past, however refined or enticingly repackaged.

We would also like to take advantage of this occasion to pay tribute to the many formations of the democratic movement of our country, including the members of our Patriotic Front, who have themselves played a central role in bringing our country as close to the democratic transformation as it is today.

We are happy that many representatives of these formations, including people who have served or are serving in the "homeland" structures, came with us to Oslo. They too must share the accolade which the Nobel Peace Prize confers.

We live with the hope that as she battles to remake herself, South Africa, will be like a microcosm of the new world that is striving to be born.

This must be a world of democracy and respect for human rights, a world freed from the horrors of poverty, hunger, deprivation and ignorance, relieved of the threat and the scourge of civil wars and external aggression and unburdened of the great tragedy of millions forced to become refugees.

The processes in which South Africa and Southern Africa as a whole are engaged, beckon and urge us all that we take this tide at the flood and make of this region as a living example of what all people of conscience would like the world to be.

We do not believe that this Nobel Peace Prize is intended as a commendation for matters that have happened and passed.

We hear the voices which say that it is an appeal from all those, throughout the universe, who sought an end to the system of apartheid.

We understand their call, that we devote what remains of our lives to the use of our country's unique and painful experience to demonstrate, in practice, that the normal condition for human existence is democracy, justice, peace, non-racism, non-sexism, prosperity for everybody, a healthy environment and equality and solidarity among the peoples.

16. a custom, principle, or belief distinguishing a particular group of people
17. Repugnant (adjective): extremely distasteful; unacceptable
18. an alliance between parties who opposed apartheid in South Africa
19. an award or privilege granted as a special honor
20. Microcosm (n: something (such as a place or event) that is seen as a small version of something larger
Moved by that appeal and inspired by the eminence\(^{21}\) you have thrust upon us, we undertake that we too will do what we can to contribute to the renewal of our world so that none should, in future, be described as the "wretched of the earth".

Let it never be said by future generations that indifference, cynicism or selfishness made us fail to live up to the ideals of humanism\(^{22}\) which the Nobel Peace Prize encapsulates.

Let the strivings of us all, prove Martin Luther King Jr. to have been correct, when he said that humanity can no longer be tragically bound to the starless midnight of racism and war.

Let the efforts of us all, prove that he was not a mere dreamer when he spoke of the beauty of genuine brotherhood and peace being more precious than diamonds or silver or gold.

Let a new age dawn!

Thank you.

\(^{21}\)Eminence (noun): recognized superiority within a particular sphere
\(^{22}\)a system of beliefs that emphasizes human potential and common human needs
Text-Dependent Questions

Directions: For the following questions, choose the best answer or respond in complete sentences.

1. PART A: Which of the following identifies Nelson Mandela's main claim in the text?
   A. South Africa has finally achieved the epitome of equality and peace, and the country will thrive in the future.
   B. Apartheid is ending in South Africa, and this provides a vision for other people who are committed to ending inequality globally.
   C. Apartheid will never truly end in South Africa, but that doesn't mean that citizens and leaders should stop fighting it.
   D. The true crime in South Africa has not been apartheid, but the violence against women and children.

2. PART B: Which detail from the text best supports the answer to Part A?
   A. “Thus, it will mark a great step forward in history and also serve as a common pledge of the peoples of the world to fight racism, wherever it occurs and whatever guise it assumes.” (Paragraph 14)
   B. “It will and must be measured by the happiness and welfare of the children, at once the most vulnerable citizens in any society and the greatest of our treasures.” (Paragraph 17)
   C. “But there are still some within our country who wrongly believe they can make a contribution to the cause of justice and peace by clinging to the shibboleths that have been proved to spell nothing but disaster.” (Paragraph 33)
   D. “We do not believe that this Nobel Peace Prize is intended as a commendation for matters that have happened and passed.” (Paragraph 40)

3. PART A: Which of the following best describes what Mandela attempts to achieve with his speech?
   A. He uses the platform to further inform people on white minority rule in other countries.
   B. He uses the opportunity to shed light on new issues plaguing South Africa.
   C. He uses the platform to call for other acts of peace throughout the world.
   D. He uses the opportunity to describe the superior accomplishments of Nobel Peace Prize recipients before him.

4. PART B: Which quote from the text best supports the answer to Part A?
   A. “It will not be presumptuous of us if we also add, among our predecessors, the name of another outstanding Nobel Peace Prize winner, the late Rev Martin Luther King Jr.” (Paragraph 5)
   B. “Neither should it ever happen that once more the avenues to peaceful change are blocked by usurpers who seek to take power away from the people, in pursuit of their own, ignoble purposes.” (Paragraph 27)
   C. “It remains our hope that these, too, will be blessed with sufficient reason to realize that history will not be denied and that the new society cannot be created by reproducing the repugnant past, however refined or enticingly repackaged.” (Paragraph 34)
   D. “We do not believe that this Nobel Peace Prize is intended as a commendation for matters that have happened and passed.” (Paragraph 40)
5. PART A: What is the “reward” that Mandela references in paragraph 15?
   A. the Nobel Peace Prize he has won
   B. the end of wide-spread suffering
   C. the material goods of South Africa
   D. the end of racism

6. PART B: Which section from the text best supports the answer to Part A?
   A. “Thus, it will mark a great step forward in history and also serve as a common pledge of the peoples of the world to fight racism,” (Paragraph 14)
   B. “an invaluable gift is in the preparation for those who suffered in the name of all humanity when they sacrificed everything” (Paragraph 15)
   C. “the rare metals and precious stones that rest in the bowels of the African soil we tread in the footsteps of our ancestors.” (Paragraph 16)
   D. “It will and must be measured by the happiness and welfare of the children, at once the most vulnerable citizens in any society and the greatest of our treasures.” (Paragraph 17)

7. Why does Mandela reference other Nobel Peace Prize recipients and how does this contribute to the power of his speech?

________________________________________________________________________

________________________________________________________________________

________________________________________________________________________

________________________________________________________________________

________________________________________________________________________
Discussion Questions

Directions: Brainstorm your answers to the following questions in the space provided. Be prepared to share your original ideas in a class discussion.

1. In the context of the text, how do people create change? How might Mandela’s speech contribute to future change? Cite evidence from this text, your own experience, and other literature, art, or history in your answer.

2. In the context of the text, how can we achieve peace? Cite evidence from this text, your own experience, and other literature, art, or history in your answer.

3. What is Nelson Mandela’s legacy? How does being named a Nobel Laureate influence a person’s legacy?